RAPHAEL EMMANUEL.

Raphael Emmanuel, a native of lesopotamia, will lecture in his native costume, telling the interesting story of his people. He is a descendant of kings, the son of a shelk.

Mesopotamia is the little country ucked away between the Tigris and Euphrates, the battle field of ancients. Here Abraham was born and here Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and Lot tended their flocks. The people there now live as they did in the days countries until he left his native country. These were Turkey and Russia. One day some two or three years ago he felt the call of the world and sold his flocks and went to Turkey and to Petrograd. He heard so much of America that he came over here. He spent some time studying American ways and American institutions, Now he is fired with zeal and ambition to take to the people of his country the message of American civilization.

Imagine, if you can, the viewpoint of a man who comes from people whose ways of living and whose habits and thoughts have not changed in four thousand years. It is almost like an actual glimpse into the stir-ring events of the Old Testament to hear Emmanuel talk.

In Washington he was made much of by the most artistic and cultured people of that city. He is a young man of taste and refinement. He is tall, slightly built and an extremely handsome young man.

His will be a voice crying out from the darkness of the past for the light in the vicinity we were given a hear-of an American present. He will sing ty welcome and their doors were the songs and illustrate the dances and tell the legends of one of the most ancient races of the world. For Emmanuel is a descendant of the Chaldeans, the wise men and the seers, of the people who lived many

OUR SOLDIER BOYS.

Letters From and Items Concerning Yale Boys Who are in the Service of Their Country

France, Oct. 27, 1918. Dear Mother and Sisters:-At the port of embarkation I was loaded on an English ship and set sail for an unknown land bidding adieu to the Statue of Liberty but ot once having the thought of fear

It being in the middle of summer the water was calm and at night the sea was most beautiful but it was hen that I was inclined to be more

The trip was uneventful with the exceptions of two of my comrades on neighboring ships passed away and were lowered to their watery graves and one youth becoming over-burdened with grief ended his troubes by plunging headlong into the briny surf, the rescuers came and made a very brave attempt but all in vain. Things passed along very smoothly until we neared the foreign hore and then came a few skirmishes with the enemy's sea demons but we outwitted the "Bosch" and landed safely in an English seaport. We were then escorted to an Eng-sh rest camp, which was very beau iful, but somewhat different than he ones we left in the "States."

We visited several of these camps; and it was in one of these that we in practice marches passed over some of the ground which Caesar once trod upon. We visited several of the ancient and noble buildings consisting of cathedrals and halls. In one I saw King Arthur's round table also a bronze statue of Queen Vicoria. Our stay in the last rest camp became brief and we were ordered to move, this time by rail, and it was during this movement that I sent you King George's message one of which was given to every "Sam-

At the end of this journey we worked practically all night, transerring our baggage from train to ship but our mess sergeant having a taste for nick-nacks, rewarded the poys well for their work. We were then escorted from noted England to Sunny France by our own "marines" and let me assure you that it was a speedy trip.

On arriving in France our language nstead of our money became conused, but we were welcomes by all he natives as far as we could under-

Off board the ship we were again marched to another rest camp, for only a short while, and then again becoming the railroad "pests" this time in "side door pullmans" we trav-eled many mile sthrough Sunny France enjoying the beautiful scenery and at last arriving at our desti-nation, which we welcomed gladly and being the first American soldiers

We are glad to see those been sick well again. We fortunate than many cities. priving themselves, gave us quarters consisting from barns to beautiful "chateaus" or castles.

At present our work gives us chances to see much of the wonderful country, which to a great extent is vineyards, but some grains and vegetables are grown here the same

At present the rainy season is in full bloom and the natives say she always lasts like this for four months Visitors are welcome and members but sometimes she forgets for a day. I cannot "parley-Voo" French to any advantage, but through the use of my hands, head and feet. I can make them understand.
As the fire is growing cold and the candle very short I will hid you all a happy good night and best wishes. A loving son and brother, MECH, FORD J. ROBBINS, Co. F, 338th Infantry, American E. F., France.

I. O. O. F. Banquet

On Friday evening last Advance Lodge No. 110 held its annual banquet about fifty members of the Order and a number of their friends and a real oed time was had.

A bounteous supper was served to those present and anyone who left the table before getting his till had no one to blame but himself.

Eldred Charles, of Caro, was present and acted as toastmaster, filling the office in a very efficient manner. He called upon different ones, and in re sponse some very interesting shor talks were given by both members and visitors. C. W. Watkins, or Highland Park, was present and gave a very in teresting address.

After the inner man was satisfied the balance of the evening was spent in music, singing and recitations. Elam Sloat was up from Port Huron and entertained the boys with a number of his popular songs. Wm. Bidleman has branched out a little as the poet laureate of our local lodge. He would make a real poet, having the meter and the measure all right, but he is a little short on memory.

The happy gathering broke up at about 1:30 when the "gang" went home after spending a delightful evening.

M. P. Church Notes

F. L. Crandall, Pastor

We regret very much that so many of our people are sick and hope that we may soon have them back to our Sunday services.

Next Sabbath our pastor will use for his morning subject, "The Doctrine of the last things" and for evening "The Leprosy of Sin."

There will be prayer service every Thursday evening. The prayer room is again in order after the recent upheaval.

We wish to thank all who donated or otherwise helped make our bazaar a success; also Mr. Jones for the use of
